

Consultative Sales Certification

Competencies and Corresponding Skills

Consultative Sales Certification provides standards of measurement based on core consultative sales competencies.

Core competencies for these standards represent consultative/solution-oriented sales skills, strategies and behaviors based on best practices of top sales performers in various business segments. The core competencies have continued to evolve over twenty-five years of assessing key performance indicators and standards.

Measurements

To obtain Consultative Sales Certification, participants must demonstrate knowledge, application and integration of the core consultative sales competencies and corresponding skills, knowledge and behaviors. Outlined are the measurements to ensure commitment and application to this process and corresponding skills.
